Statement on Archival Language:

The David Allan Hubbard Library aims to describe archival materials in a way that is respectful to all communities who use, create, and are represented in our collections. However, the nature of historical materials is such that some material may represent positions, language, values, and stereotypes that are not consistent with the current values and practices at Fuller Theological Seminary.

Within our finding aids, it is possible users may encounter language that is offensive or harmful. While some language included in finding aids was written by staff, other language originates from the people and organizations that created the material. For example, folder titles are often preserved from the creators. It is standard practice not to change them and, in some cases, it provides important context about the materials. When we find problematic language created by archivists and staff we strive to update it. When we find problematic language from the original creator we will transcribe as is to preserve the context of its creation.

Biographical History

Robert Acheson Hadden (1868-1939) was a founding member of the Christian Fundamentals League of Los Angeles. Hadden, Howard N. Bunce, Ralph E. Isbell, and J. Clyde Stillion founded The Christian Fundamentals Magazine in January 1928. He was married to Jennie Jones Hadden (1867-1959). They married on July 16, 1895 in Cook County, Illinois.

Scope and Content

The collection began with a fragile scrapbook containing cutout Bible studies from The Christian Fundamentals Magazine. Many materials came from the New Testament course offered by Hadden in each issue, as well as the "Questions and Answers" section initialed H.N.B. The scrapbook includes typed and handwritten notes; mailings sent out by the League; and a two page manuscript, "How the Holy Bible Came to Us," by Gerald B. Winrod.

Fuller Seminary Archives staff added two pamphlets by Hadden and information on the League and its publication.

The David Allan Hubbard Library also holds a number of fascicles of The Christian Fundamentals Magazine.
