Statement on Archival Language:

The David Allan Hubbard Library aims to describe archival materials in a way that is respectful to all communities who use, create, and are represented in our collections. However, the nature of historical materials is such that some material may represent positions, language, values, and stereotypes that are not consistent with the current values and practices at Fuller Theological Seminary.

Within our finding aids, it is possible users may encounter language that is offensive or harmful. While some language included in finding aids was written by staff, other language originates from the people and organizations that created the material. For example, folder titles are often preserved from the creators. It is standard practice not to change them and, in some cases, it provides important context about the materials. When we find problematic language created by archivists and staff we strive to update it. When we find problematic language from the original creator we will transcribe as is to preserve the context of its creation.

Biographical History

James William McClendon (1924-2000), a Christian theologian and ethicist, taught at Fuller Theological Seminary. He completed academic courses at the University of Texas, and Princeton Theological Seminary. He earned a Th.D. from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. McClendon taught at a variety of colleges including Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, the Jesuit University of San Francisco, Baylor University, the University of Notre Dame, and Stanford University. His theological system helped inform the narrative theology movement in the 1960s.

McClendon's works include:

Pacemakers of Christian Thought, Broadman Press, 1962

Biography as Theology, Abington Press, 1974

Understanding Religious Convictions, University of Notre Dame Press, 1975

Is God God? (edited with Axel D. Steuer), Abington Press, 1981

Baptist Roots: A Reader in the Theology of a Christian People (with Curtis W. Freeman and C. Rosalee Velloso da Silva), Judson Press, 1999

Ethics: Systematic Theology, Volume 1, Abington Press, 1986

Doctrine: Systematic Theology, Volume 2, Abington Press, 1994

Witness: Systematic Theology, Volume 3, Abington Press, 2000

Scope and Content

Under the leadership of James William McClendon (1924-2000) a Congress on Systematic Theology was held at Fuller Theological Seminary in 1993. The collection consists of two boxes of papers related to the Lilly grant, which made this Congress possible. It also consists of the papers presented there.
