COPYRIGHT AND RESTRICTIONS

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted materials. The various state privacy acts govern the use of materials that document private individuals, groups, and corporations.

Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a reproduction if the document does not infringe the privacy rights of an individual, group, or corporation. These specified conditions of authorized use include:

- non-commercial and non-profit study, scholarship, or research, or teaching
- criticism, commentary, or news reporting
- as a NPS preservation or security copy
- as a research copy for deposit in another institution

If a user later uses a copy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," the user may be personally liable for copyright, privacy, or publicity infringement. This institution's permission to obtain a photographic, xerographic, digital, or other copy of a document does not indicate permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, sell, distribute, or prepare derivative works from this document without first obtaining permission from the copyright holder and from any private individual, group, or corporation shown or otherwise recorded.

Permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, prepare derivative works from, sell, or otherwise distribute the item must be obtained by the user separately in writing from the holder of the original copyright (or if the creator is dead from his/her heirs) as well as from any individual(s), groups, or corporations whose name, image, recorded words, or private information (e.g., employment information) may be reproduced in the source material. The holder of the original copyright is not necessarily the National Park Service. The National Park Service is not legally liable for copyright, privacy, or publicity infringement when materials are wrongfully used after being provided to researchers for "fair use."

This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if fulfillment of the order is judged in violation of copyright or federal or state privacy or publicity law.

HISTORY

Craig Bates worked for the National Park Service for more than 30 years, and was a nationally-recognized expert in the history and culture of the Pauite, Miwok, and other native peoples of the Yosemite area.

Born in 1952 in Oakland, California, and raised in the Northern California communities of Hayward and Pleasanton, Bates studied at Columbia College before joining the National Park Service in 1973 as a park technician with the Indian Cultural Program at Yosemite National Park. Bates spent his entire career at Yosemite, moving on to become Indian Cultural Specialist, Assistant Curator, and Curator of Ethnography. He retired from Yosemite in 2006.

In addition to working on ethnographic projects, museum collections, exhibits, interpretive programs, craft presentations, and educational programs at Yosemite, Bates became a noted scholar and prolific author. He specialized in Native American basketry, but also conducted research and wrote widely on Indian languages, shamanism, and genealogy of Northern California tribes, crafts, dance, mythologies, and legends. He published more than 100 articles and monographs, and wrote or contributed too many books on the history, languages, art, and material culture of Native Americans in the Western United States.

Bates' work attracted some criticism in the 1990s and early 2000s from members or supporters of the Pauites, who claimed that Bates favored self-professed Miwoks who were seeking Federal recognition. Bates' reputation in the scholarly community, however, remained strong. He received grants from the Lanon Foundation and others to carry out studies or conduct crafts workshops, he participated as a member of a cultural group that traveled to Russia, and he served as consultant to various museums on exhibits, acquisitions, and documentation.

The Craig Bates Collection constitutes Bates' "desk file," or the papers he accumulated while working at Yosemite. They include his research files on Northern California Indians, as well as documentation on his official activities as Yosemite's Curator of Ethnography.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

CRAIG BATES COLLECTION 1973-2005

CATALOG NUMBER	YOSE 120162
VOLUME	36 LF
DESCRIPTION	Correspondence, research notes, manuscripts, reports, newspaper clippings, journal articles, photographs, sound recordings, drawings, and maps, on the history, social institutions, genealogy, languages, crafts, lore, culture, material culture, and ethnography of the Miwok, Paiute, and other Native American tribes of the Yosemite Region and from throughout Northern and Central California. Much of the collection focuses on Craig Bates' research into basketweaving, dance, feather belts, acorn gathering and use, attire, blankets, village life, tribal governance, tribal populations, linguistics, and religious practices. There are also files on individual tribal members and tribal families, as well as on significant archeological, anthropological, and ethnographic expeditions and studies from the 19th and 20th centuries. In addition, the collection contains documentation on interpretive, educational, ethnographic, and museum activities at Yosemite NP, and on publications by Bates and others.
