Biographical Note:

George Gill Green was born in Clarksboro, Gloucester County, New Jersey, January 16, 1842, the son of Lewis M. Green and Mary Ann Turner. His mother died in 1844 and his father married Ellen H. Banks in 1849. To that marriage, a daughter and son were born – George’s half-siblings. He attended Fort Edward Institute located north of Albany, New York, Dickinson College in Carlisle, Pennsylvania, and Pennington Seminary in Pennington, New Jersey before entering medical school at the University of Pennsylvania. He attended medical school in 1862, 1865 and 1866 but did not graduate. In 1864, he enlisted in the 142d Illinois Infantry for 100 days for which he received a pension as an assistant to a surgeon. He was appointed to the rank of colonel in the New Jersey State National Guard in 1887 by the Governor of New Jersey. Prior to the Civil War, he clerked in his father’s store in Greenwich Township, New Jersey. His business ventures lead him to Baltimore, Maryland where he was a wholesale agent for Dr. C.G. Garrison’s Family Medicines and Athens, Ohio where he met and married Angie Lindley Brown, daughter of Leonard Brown and Julia A. Cleveland in 1870. About 1872, he purchased his father’s factory in Woodbury, New Jersey- continuing to use his father’s recipes to make Dr. Boschee’s German Syrup and Green’s August Flower. He marketed these products by printing and publishing his own pictorial almanacs, trade cards, brochures and calendars. In addition to a glass factory, a laboratory, and truck works that supported the main factory, he financed the construction of many other buildings, homes and streets in Woodbury. Many were named after Green. In 1881, his father built The Green Hotel in Woodbury. In 1887, Green and Andrew McNally purchased 25 ½ acres in Gorgan Tract (Altadena, California) from Melvin E. Wood and Edwin C. Webster. In 1891, George G. Green obtained the unfinished Webster Hotel situated at on the southeast corner of Raymond Avenue and Green Street (then Kansas St.) in Pasadena, California. The hotel opened in 1894 under the name The Green Hotel. Construction on Castle Green (called The Central Annex) located across the street from the Green Hotel began in 1897 with a Grand Opening on Green’s birthday in 1899. Another addition called the Wooster Block (west of Castle Green) opened in 1903. Green’s winter home was located in nearby Altadena, California. He became familiar with the “forthcoming community” called Altadena during his 1887 visit to Pasadena.¹ In 1888, when his youngest daughter was born in Woodbury, New Jersey, Green named her “Altadena Green”. Colonel Green died in Woodbury on February 21, 1925. He was survived by his wife, Angie, and children- Mrs. Lottie Grattan (widow of William E. Grattan), Mrs. Charles P. Greene (Edythe), George G. Green, Jr. and Mrs. Robert Neustadt (Altadena). His son, Harry Brown Green, died of influenza in 1918. Colonel Green’s wife died in 1934. Colonel Green, his wife Angie, and all their children except Altadena are buried at Eglington Cemetery in Clarksboro, New Jersey.²

Historical Note: George G. Green maintained a home in Woodbury, NJ called Gray Towers, a vacation home called Kil Kare Castle at Lake Hopatcong, NJ, a hunting lodge called Foxledge in Sparta, NJ and his winter home in Altadena, CA. One article reported he lived six months of the year in California and three months at each of the vacation homes.³ Through various personal relationships and businesses, he connected with other early Altadena and Pasadena residents, such as Andrew McNally, map publisher; P.D. Armour, founder of meat packing company; A.C. Armstrong, purchasing agent of the Santa Fe railroad; and Thaddeus S.C. Lowe, aeronaut, scientist and inventor. Through his wife and children, Green was acquainted with Emlen Drayton, son-in-law and governor of the New York Stock Exchange; Lewis Lupton, nephew and chemist in the G.G. Green Co.; J.H. Holmes, Green’s wife’s cousin’s husband who was manager of the Green Hotel; Benjamin Brown, his wife’s brother and shipping clerk at the company. Social events at the Hotel Green in Pasadena often featured gala events that included his daughters Edythe, a harpist, and Lottie, a vocalist.

Fires brought loss to Green’s stable in New Jersey in 1885 and the death of his granddaughter, Lotta G. Greene, daughter of Edythe, in a house fire in 1922. An autographed photo in the collection indicates he knew Blanche Galton Whiffen (stage name Mrs. Whiffen) well-known Broadway actress, singer and aunt to Agnes C. Kelleher, wife of his Colonel Green’s son George G. Green, Jr.

Abstract: The George G. Green Collection includes personal and business correspondence, financial and legal papers, deeds, patents, newspaper clippings, scrapbooks belonging to George G. Green (1842-1925) a manufacturer of proprietary medicines based in Woodbury, NJ and business and property investor in Pasadena, California and Altadena, California. In addition to family photographs, the collection includes numerous interior and exterior photographs of Hotel Green and Castle Green. Ephemera include items relating to the Green Hotel Company, Castle Green and G.G. Green, Inc. of Woodbury, New Jersey.

Provenance: Some of this material was donated by Steven Harris in 2005 and 2010. Mr. Harris obtained photocopies of many original materials from Gay Green Ciprico Japinga of Holland, Michigan, great-granddaughter of Col. Green.
