Biography/History

The Newspaper Clipping Files Collection, 1913-2010 is the result of a deliberate effort undertaken by the Perris Valley Historical and Museum Association to collect and organize important newspaper clippings pertaining to the city of Perris, its citizens and organizations. The collecting effort was undertaken in the 1980's, and continued until the collection was transferred to the newly-established Perris Valley Museum Historical Archives in December 2010.

Scope and Content

The Newspaper Clipping Files Collection, 1913-2010 covers a number of subjects relating to the city, citizenry, organizations and events connected to the city of Perris.

Some of the more prominent individuals included in this collection include, but are not limited to, the following: Frederick Thomas Perris, namesake of the city of Perris; A.W. and J.F. Hook, Perris pioneers with their Hook Brothers Mercantile; the Bernasconi family, Perris pioneers with their Southern Hotel.

Prominent organizations featured in this collection include, but are not limited to, the following: the Perris Valley Historical and Museum Association, the parent organization of the Perris Valley Museum Historical Archives, and the Orange Empire Railway Museum, a world-renowned railroading museum.

Some of the events highlighted in this collection include, but are not limited to, the following: the annual Potato Festival, which celebrates the city of Perris's agricultural history; and Fred T. Perris Day, a day named in honor of the city's namesake in which a family with pioneer roots is selected by the Perris Valley Historical and Museum Association and honored.
